

In accordance with Governor Murphy's previous Executive Orders, all N.J. Workers' Compensation Courts shall continue to be closed to the public and to non-essential court personnel until Monday, June 8, 2020.

All thirty-three (33) Judges of Compensation previously assigned by the Director and Chief Judge shall continue to hear as many workers' compensation matters as possible in their assigned vicinage by telephonic and video conferencing, including emergent and non-emergent matters, such as, trials, pre-trial conferences, motions for medical and temporary benefits, general motions, and settlements.

Effective Tuesday, May 26, 2020, the following five (5) workers' compensation judges shall also hear matters in the following vicinages:

Hon. James Robertson - Atlantic City Vicinage

Hon. Leslie Berich - Freehold Vicinage

Hon. Anthony Mautone - Jersey City Vicinage

Hon. Gerald Massell - New Brunswick Vicinage

Hon. Robert Prisco - Plainfield Vicinage

There will be no in-person Workers' Compensation Court proceedings except limited emergent matters and limited ongoing trials and motions for medical and temporary benefits, in which case masks shall be worn by all parties and social distancing shall be enforced.

Court offices will remain closed for in-person submissions. Filings will continue to be accepted electronically through COURTS On-line.

Please contact each individual workers' compensation court if you have questions about a scheduled hearing, motion, conference, or other matter by email, fax, or telephone.

Hon. Russell Wojtenko, Jr.

Director and Chief Judge of Compensation
